This four-day program provides prevention and education in a safe, supportive setting. The program helps children learn they are not alone and there are other children and families who have similar experiences.

Through art, games, role-play and fun activities, children learn to identify and express feelings, develop self-care skills and deepen communication with their parents. Parents or caregivers join their children for a portion of the program. The adult component includes parent education and support.

This program is for children ages 7 to 12, from families who have struggled with alcohol and/or other drug addiction in the past or are still struggling.

“My mom is sick. I’m happy that she’s getting better.”

“I’m learning that it’s okay to share my feelings. Now I can laugh and play.”

“My kids have a much better understanding of addiction as a disease. They know that they are not responsible.”

“They now have the tools to understand the disease that they themselves could

Alcoholism and drug addiction affects everyone in the family, including children. This disease often drives a wedge between loved ones and prevents them from the closeness they deserve.

The Children’s Program helps parents and children open up lines of communication and heal the hurt in their relationships. By learning about addiction in an age-appropriate way, children gain valuable insight and understanding. The entire family learns new skills and is given the tools to recover.

Addiction tends to run in families. Through this program, each family takes huge steps in changing their legacy, moving away from addiction toward health and wellness.

Above all, children learn that addiction is not their fault.
